Art Central is the new and exciting Art Fair in Hong Kong. Looking to showcase the next generation of talent alongside some of the most established contemporary art galleries and spaces from across the globe. Launched by the founders of ART HK, Art Central will run alongside Art Basel Hong Kong this year. Since the launch of ART HK, Hong Kong has firmly cemented itself as the leading art hub in Asia. Hong Kong is now the third largest auction market in the world, after New York and London. As the fair now comes to a close, we’ve taken the time to select our favourite works for you to take a look at.

Edward Burtynsky – Canola Fields, Luoping, Yunnan Province, China, 2011

Edward Burtynsky’s large-format colour photographs document the ramifications of human industry on the natural world in a perversely beautiful manner. Bold swathes of colour and rich texture render his images of mines, industrial refineries, shipbreaking yards, and other scarred landscapes from Detroit to Bangladesh, painterly. Featured by the Sundaram Tagore Gallery, who are devoted to examining the exchange of ideas between Western and non-Western cultures.

Li Hao – Guaxiang No.18, 2014
The young contemporary Chinese artist graduated from the Central Academy of Fine Arts, Beijing in 1982. The artists paintings have been noted to be different from former freehand brushwork, with the artist hoping to make a breakthrough in contemporary ink painting, whilst representing traditional skills at the same time. Featured by the Galerie du Monde, located in central Hong Kong and specialising in Modern and Contemporary works of art by internationally established and emerging Chinese artists.

Wan Zhenyu 万真宇 – Swirl No. 1 姿勢1, 2015

A Chinese contemporary artist, whose works are full of imagination and interpretation of the future. His work arranges for all kinds of people and incidents from the real world to meet by accident, giving rise to a strange sensory world. The works of the artist resemble a magic cube bringing people into varied suppositions of fortunes. Featured at the Art Central Art Fair by the Art Seasons Gallery, who are known to explore and to promote contemporary Chinese art.

Lan Zhenghui – F38 Attempt F38 蹦式, 2014

The artist is known for producing large scale, often monumental, abstract ink paintings. Lan draws of Chinese painting traditions using only black ink on Xuan paper, but also diverges on his own emotional pursuit of individual expression. Favouring a freehand approach to the brushstroke and launched a ‘power-brush’ movement, with his colleagues in 2000, to promote the natural sense of motion and power in ink brush. Another work featured by Galerie du Monde.

Li Hongbo – Gaze, 2014
The artist is fascinated by what he has described as “the endless possibilities of paper”, with his sculptures made of thousands of individual sheets of paper. The artist also looks to incorporate ancient Chinese traditions, which incorporates expandable honeycomb structures. The work featured here is a ironic take on this subject with a carving knife structure depicting deer, which is presumably a reference to meat. Featured as part of the display by the Gallery, Contemporary by Angela Li, which has been dedicated to the promotion of contemporary & avant-garde artists from China and around the world.
